HOW IT WORKS

Say hello.

Answer three quick questions. Let it read your day with a face scan. It vends what fits.

01

Three questions

Answer three quick questions about your day — energy, mood, what you need.

02

Face scan

An on-device face scan reads lighting, framing and wellness cues. Nothing leaves the machine.

03

Your match

The engine scores the whole catalog against your answers and picks your match.

04

Vended, chilled

Pay by card and take your bottle — delivered gently by elevator, never dropped.

The kiosk speaks — warm, pre-generated voices in Turkish and English. The scan runs fully on-device and is presented as wellness indicators, not medical advice; the questionnaire drives the recommendation.

SIGNATURE DRINK

BENEFITS

Good. For real.

Deep cleanse

detox greens, pressed raw

Light digestion

cucumber & apple fibre

Skin glow

antioxidants, no added sugar

All-day hydration

96% water-rich produce

From demo to machine.

The kiosk software runs on the real machine unchanged — fullscreen Chromium on an embedded computer, talking to the vending hardware over the same event interface as the demo, carried over a local WebSocket.

RECOMMENDED FOR THE VISION

Path A — Real vending chassis

A refrigerated vending machine with elevator delivery and an MDB bus — the industry-standard controller protocol. Glass bottles need elevator delivery, not drop. Examples: AMS Sensit combo coolers, Crane/Vendo glass-front refrigerated vendors. The biggest cost and lead-time item — price it early.

$3,000–7,000 new · much less used

Path B — Smart cooler

Keep the open cooler; add an electronic door lock and a card reader. The door unlocks after a card tap and purchases are detected by weight sensors or shelf cameras. Simpler mechanically, harder software; sold as a retrofit kit.

Retrofit kit on an existing cooler

The parts listed assume Path A and are the same for either path except the MDB interface.

Bill of materials.
